

WeRateDogs Insights

WeRateDogs is a Twitter account that rate people's dogs. These rating have a denominator of 10, and most of the numerator are greater than 10.

These insights is gained from this twitter account data, it shows some interesting facts about the dogs and their stages and shows facts about the retweets and favorite count and the rating.

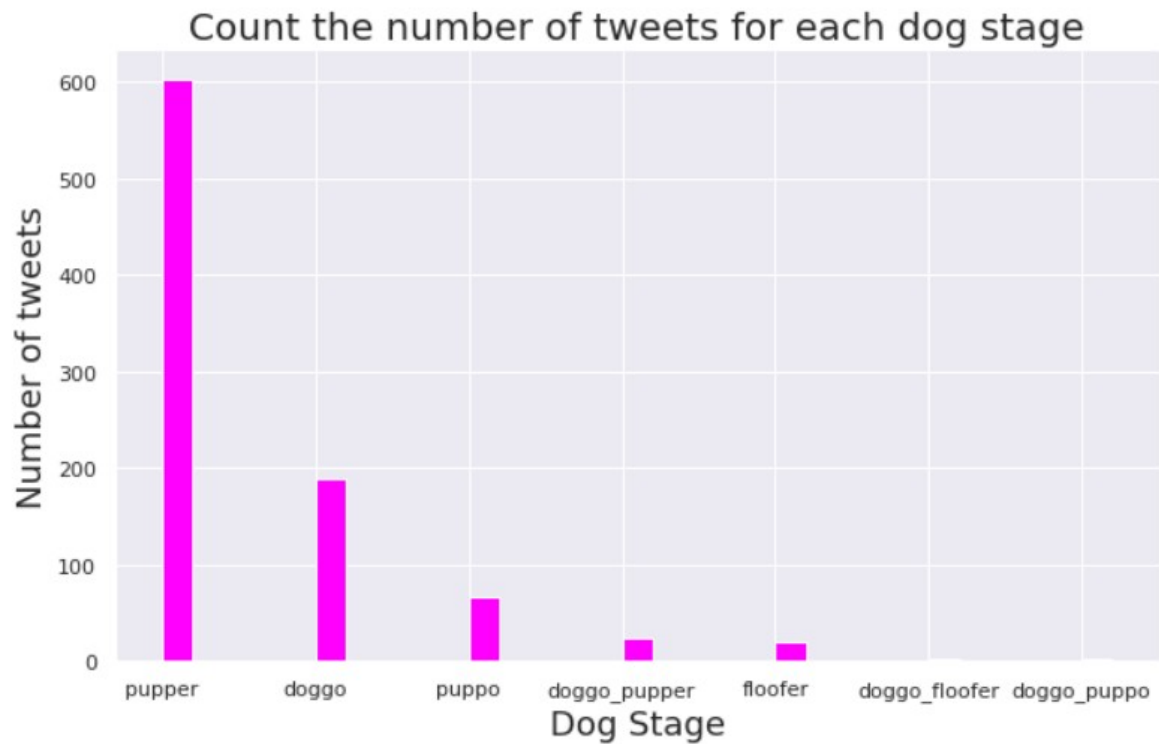

1. How is the interaction with different dog stages?

The bar plot below is showing the average of favorite tweets count and the average of retweets count corresponding to each dog stage. It seems that stage 'doggo_puppo' is the most loved stage to people, it has the most favorite count and also the retweets count.

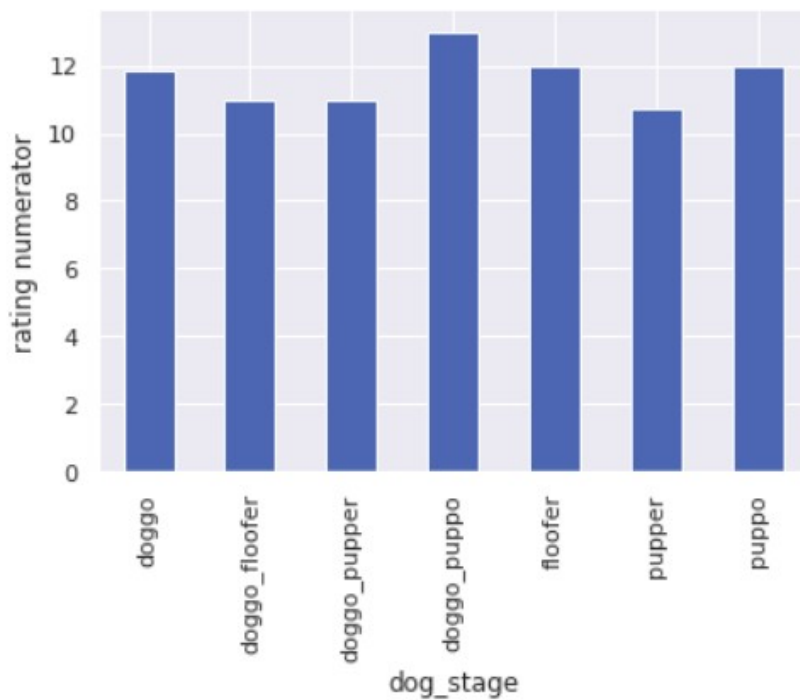

2. What is the most common dog stage?

The next bar plot shows every dog stage and the tweet count about each of them. It shows that the most of tweets that are categorized is about 'pupper' stage.

3. What is the dog stage that has the higher rate?

This bar plot below shows that 'doggo pupper' stage has the higher rate comparing with others.

4. What is the average favorite count over the time.

It seems that the recent years have favorite counts more than before, the people's engagement is increasing over the years which is indicator for the good content. The next graph shows that for us.

